

13 things to do this week in NYC, July 9-15

Mike Doughty

July 10, 7-8:30 p.m.

Rubin Museum, 150 W. 17th St.

$30-$35

You're used to seeing your favorite musicians playing the back room at a bar on the LES, but you can class it up a bit for Mike Doughty, the founder of Soul Coughing, who's promoting his newest album. The museum's Naked Soul space is designed to highlight acoustics without mics or amps. "Stellar Motel" is Doughty's eighth solo album, offering a hip-hop slant in collaboration with DJ Good Goose.

New York Super Craft Beer Festival

July 11, 2-5 p.m.

Watermark Bar, 78 South St.

$60-$75

Union Beer Distributors and Merchant's Hospitality have paired up for the first New York Super Craft Beer Festival, featuring over 75 rare brews (with an emphasis on local brands). There will also be food and live music, adding to the ambience as you savor your suds while overlooking the East River, with views of two bridges and the Brooklyn skyline.

'Jurassic Park' Trivia

July 12, 7 p.m.

Videology, 308 Bedford Ave., Williamsburg

Free

Think you can negotiate a kitchen full of raptors? Know the antidote to dilophosaurus venom? Then you might have what it takes to play for prizes in four rounds of "Jurassic Park" trivia. Teams of up to four will have to tackle a multimedia contest with general knowledge, but also photos and videos, so bone up on your dino DNA sequencing.
